SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19 .- Ten thousand survivors of the civil war passed in reby Youtsey before the shooting that his (Roberts's) Martini rifle was to be used to view to-day, marching to the martial tunes that inspired them to endeavor forty years ago. Above the national colors, borne by tor at Frankfort in 1900, testified that the messenger boy, Ed Stiffee, whom the comevery marcher, proudly floated torn and monwealth placed on the State Capitol tattered flags. These, with empty sleeves grounds at the time of the shooting, was and limping gait, were eloquent reminders not there but in the office of the company of the sorrow and glory of war. Unlike the parade of yesterday with the quick marching line of youths, this procession had the measured and steady tread of age. As the different divisions marched along, waves of sentiment passed over marchers and spectators. There were many still vigorous in line but they waited for their weaker comrades and the column halted often on its two mile course. "It's my last march," said many a grizzled veteran, as he started out. "It is now or never, and I am going to try." In the long lines were men from every corner of the nation. Veterans who perhaps had enlisted from Maine or some other far-away State wore the badges of Western commonwealths, showing the growth of the nation they fought to keep intact. Of all the States, California, excepted, the one that had the largest number in line was Illinois, but Ohio was a close second. Almost every delegation had its embiem, Ohio its buckeye, Connecticut a wooden nutmeg. Minnesota a loaf of bread and so on. At the head of the procession rode a veteran on a bicycle and whenever the marchers halted he circled around with the ease of a boy until the line moved on

The Seneca plant at York, Illinois and Ohio delegations were supplied with horses as well as bands to accompany their divisions. Pennsylvania headed the second division and in the line apepared five survivors of the First Pennsylvania rifles, "The Bucktails." And other States had features that drew the attention of the throng in the side lines. Although there was very little variety of uniform in the parade, the color feature was amply furnished by the great abundance of flags and banners. Nearly every one of the thousands in line carried the national emblem, making the scene most brilliant. The Illinois delegates attracted much attention and was probably the largest of any from the East. Ohio was close behind numerically. During the passage of the procession a salute was fired from Union Square and bombs were discharged at intervals. The Alaskan delegates carried aloft an immense pair of horns and a couple of badgers were borne by the Wisconsin men. A few of the veterans were compelled by physical weakness to drop out when their hotels were reached.

MANY SPECIAL FEATURES. The afternoon was devoted to receptions and reunions. At the headquarters of the the Grand Army the number of visitors was so great that passage through the rooms was almost impossible. All of the state and company headquarters were open and hospitality was lavishly dispensed. The rooms of the various California posts were centers of interest, and at each place boxes of fruit were given to all visitors. In the evening thousands attended a concert at Mechanic's Pavilion. rather vague, general allegations that the Crawfords did not exist and that the millions did not exist. He insisted that it was insufficient for the prosecution to demand, "where are the Crawfords," and "where are the millions," but that it was incumbent on the prosecution to establish affirmatively that both the Crawfords and the millions did not exist. Counsel further insisted that the whole prosecution proceeded from the idea that a Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies of huge swindle existed and that it was necessary for the Humberts to prove themselves innocent whereas the requirement of the proscution was to prove them specifically Maitre Labori pointed out that criminal proceedings were not taken until the Humbert family had fallen from its high estate and declared that he could, but would not create a scandal by revealing the names certain personages contained in the sealed documents who had sought favors during the prosperous days of the family. He further accused the government of giving out certain names in this connection. Maitre Labori, discussing the strictly legal spects of the case, affirmed that there were ample grounds to obtain the quashing of the indictment, but Mme. Theresa insisted on seeking her acquittal by a jury because politics had been brought into the affair. He will continue his address tomorrow.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19 .- Some 1,500 negroes, representing almost every section of the country, assembled in the House of Representatives at the State Capitol this morning, the occasion being the opening of the fourth annual convention of the National Negro Business Men's League. The sessions will continue until to-morrow evening. Booker T. Washington, the Alabama berts, pointing out that Madame Humbert | educator, and president of the league, was had not said she had a secret and intended | the central figure of the convention, and to keep it, but she had frankly said she his address to-night attracted a large audihad a secret which she intended to divulge ence. "The National Negro Business Men's League assembled here constitutes, I think I am safe in saying, the largest, and perhaps the most representative, secular organization among our people in this country. Its growth during the five years since its first organization at Boston has been at a very rapid rate.

"More and more, I am glad to see, the suaded. His gait grew slower from block maintained that it was not sufficient to black man is beginning to appreciate and take advantage of the opportunities for commercial and business development in emphasize opportunities than grievances. The world soon gets tired of the man or the race with a grievance. We must learn to be bigger than those who would insult us. We must learn to hold up our heads, and march bravely forward, in spite of obstacles and discouragements. The mere fact that there can assemble in this beautiful Capitol building in a Southern State hundreds of colored men and women from all parts of the country, representing, as you do, nearly every line of business in which the white man is engaged, is an indication of growth which is more potent and helpful than much abstract argument. The race that can produce such an assembly of men and women after only forty years of freedom is one to be proud of. MUST SHOW THEIR WORTH.

"We shall succeed in winning our way into the confidence and esteem of the American people just in proportion as we show ourselves valuable to the community in which we live, in all the common industries, in commerce, in the welfare of the state, and in the manifestation of the highest character. The community does not fear as a rule the vote of the man, no matter what his color, who is a large taxpayer. It is not the negro who owns a successful business, or works at a trade, who is charged with crime. "While we are in many cases surrounded with disadvantages, when we compare our condition and opportunities with those of the Jew in many parts of Europe, it is easy to see that almost every opportunity denied the Jews is open to us. "The greater the difficulties to be overcome, the more strength we shall gain by

"The negro is not ungrateful for all the benefits he has received at the hands of the white people of this country, and should on every proper occasion never fall to express this gratitude in no uncertain language. But the mere fact that we are not easily satisfied, and seek still further opportunities of advancement, is an indication of the value of the race. People who are easily satisfied are people of few wants. Wherever you find a race that is easily satisfied, and one that has few wants, there you will find a race that is of little value to its country, industrially, commercially,

Williams and President Collier, of the Chamber of Commerce. After the addresses the convention adjourned until to-night. The league put itself on record in reference to the recent disturbance at the Boston meeting which was being addressed by Mr. Washington. On motion of Dr. E. C. Morris, of Arkansas, president of the National Baptist convention, the largest negro organization in America, the night's programme was suspended, and by a rising vote Booker T. It Probably Will Follow the Demonstration by Russia.

PARIS, Aug. 19.-It was learned in official quarters to-day that the action of Russia in ordering a naval squadron to Turkish water may be speedily followed by important joint naval action on the part of the powers. Communications are being exchanged by the powers relative to a joint demonstration before Salonica. The final determination will depend largely on Russia, but if a joint demonstration is determined on the fleets of France and Austria will co-operate, and it is probable that the fleets of all the European powers having Turkish interests, except possibly Germany, which has not favored taking energetic steps against Turkey will take part in it. In the meantime the Russian squadron will not proceed to Constantinople, as has been reported, but will rendezvous at a small port of the vilayet of Adrianople, above the entrance of the Bosphorus. For the present this squadron has no orders to depend on Turkey's fulfillment of the terms of Russia's final demands in connection with the assassination of Consul Rostkovski. The punishment of a number of the persons implicated is not considered to be full compliance with the terms of the demands, which include adequate indemnity.

Besides the Rostkovski incident, the proposed joint naval action before Salonica is due to the earnest representations of the foreign consuls at Salonica, who set forth that their lives are in danger. The first representation on the subject reached the French authorities several weeks ago, and since then other consuls have made simila representations. The assassination of M. Rostkovski is giving such emphasis to the statements of the consuls that consideration of a joint naval demonstration of sufficient strength to impress Turkey with the necessity for taking decisive action looking to the maintenance of order in Macedonia is now in progress. The exchanges of communications have shown that Russia and Austria continue to co-operate fully in the action taken toward Turkey.

Heavy Purchases of Coal.

LONDON, Aug. 20.-The Daily Mail asserts that Great Britain, Russia and Turkey are laying in enormous abnormal quantities of Welsh steam coal, presumably in preparation for all eventualities. The British admiralty has asked for quotations for 1,000,000 tons for storage at the British stations, principally Gibraltar and Malta, for four months, ending December, which double the quantity usually required. Russa wants hearly as much coal and Tu key is buying extensively.

Small Fight in Macedonia.

SALONICA, Aug. 19.-A revolutionary band engaged a force of Turkish troops yesterday at Kailar. Thirty of the revolutionists were killed and the troops are pursuing the rest of the band. A message from the metropolitan of Salonica further confirms the reports that the Turkish troops on entering Krushevo terribly mal-treated the inhabitants. About 150 Greeks and others, including eighty children, were marched as prisoners to Monastir. Five died on the way.
